U.S. Travel Hall of Leaders

2011 Call for Nominations

Induction to the U.S. Travel Hall of Leaders is the single highest honor an individual in the travel and tourism industry can receive. The award is presented by the U.S. Travel Association. Inductees into the Hall of Leaders are “individuals who have made sustained, noteworthy contributions that have had a positive impact on the broad travel and tourism industry.” The exemplary vision and leadership demonstrated by these individuals have strengthened and unified the industry well beyond their own organizations, industry segments or communities. The 2011 U.S. Travel Hall of Leaders inductee will be honored during the U.S. Travel winter board meeting in early December.

Eligibility

Nominees may be individuals who represent public or private sector organizations or activities, educational institutions, authors, publishers, etc. Previous inductees are not eligible for consideration.

Candidates nominated for the Hall of Leaders must have “made sustained, noteworthy contributions that have had a positive impact on the broad travel and tourism industry.” Please provide 250 words or less about the nominee’s lasting contributions, long-term achievements that have impacted the entire industry and his/her leadership role.

I would like to nominate this individual for induction into the U.S. Travel Hall of Leaders:
